We Tell Our Story

A History of Resistance & Resilience as It Defined the Filipinos of Hawai'i

(curated by Ellen-Rae Cachola and Marie Antonette Anamong Ramos) is offered by FAUW, a non-profit organization that aims to preserve, support and share the history, art and culture of Filipinos and Filipino Americans. This exhibition features a historical timeline grounded in the resistance and resilience of Filipinos in Hawai'i, along with art and creative projects by local high school students and community members. This project aims to help others understand and appreciate the Filipino experience in Hawai'i through writing workshops and public sharing.
